

Christopher Masse PT, DPT

Physical Therapist

Chris received his doctorate degree in physical therapy from Temple University in 2013. He has 10 years of experience working in outpatient orthopedics. His treatment philosophy focuses on utilizing a combination of manual therapy techniques and therapeutic exercise. He is also trained in Integrative Dry Needling. Outside of the clinic, Chris enjoys surfing, snowboarding, hiking, running, traveling and spending time with his family.

Education University of Massachusetts Amherst 2008– Bachelors of science in Kinesiology, Minor in Psychology

Temple University 2013 – Doctorate of Physical Therapy

Location Center for Orthopedics and Movement
4 Alumni Drive
Exeter, NH

Specialties Integrative dry needling
Orthopedic rehabilitation
Pre/post-surgical rehabilitation
Graston technique
Maitland Australian Physiotherapy
Running and gait mechanics
Sports Medicine