

Tomislav Rogic, DPT, ATC

Physical Therapist and Athletic Trainer

Tomislav Rogic, DPT, ATC is a full time physical therapist that also works as an athletic trainer for local sporting events. He started his career as an athletic trainer at a high school in New Jersey then pursued a doctorate degree in physical therapy at the University of Rhode Island. Tomislav treats patients of all ages, and his areas of expertise primarily include all outpatient orthopedics, along with sports medicine. His practice methods consist of a healthy balance of therapeutic exercise and hands on treatment. Some of these manual techniques include dry needling, joint mobilizations, high velocity low amplitude manipulations, and instrument assisted soft tissue manipulation. Tomislav is also a member of Exeter Hospital's joint replacement team and even provides medical coverage for local sporting events. In his free time, Tomislav enjoys being outside, playing soccer, skiing, and spending time with his family.

Education	Doctorate of Physical Therapy from the University of Rhode Island Bachelor of Science degree in Athletic Training from Marist College
Specialties	Outpatient Orthopedics Sports Medicine