Physical Therapist

After more than 10 years as a private practice owner in Portsmouth, I'm excited to join the team at Exeter Hospital physical therapy and look forward to the opportunity to be part of such a respected organization. Wanting to establish a more personalized manner of treatment using a multifaceted approach, I have tailored my treatment of patients to where they become a part of the process in returning to full health. As a physical therapy specialist, I take pride in providing excellent care and collaborative treatment. I live across the river in Maine with my wife and two teenage kids. I enjoy all winter activities, tennis, hiking, biking and repairing whatever needs to be fixed

Education      University of New England 1994 magna cum laude
