

Jennifer Roelofs, MPT

Jen has worked as a physical therapist since 1998 in outpatient orthopedic settings, inpatient rehabilitation hospitals, and as a director of rehabilitation in the skilled nursing setting. She currently specializes in treating patients with neurological disorders, balance and vestibular disorders, geriatrics, and fall recovery and prevention.

Jen's strength is motivating patients to overcome both the mental and physical barriers of rehabilitation. Using the most recent research-based treatment interventions, she finds success in maximizing her patient's quality of life and function. Outside of the clinic, Jen enjoys yoga and exploring the outdoors of New England with her family.

Education: BA, Colgate University, Hamilton, NY
Post-Baccalaureate Pre-Med, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, PA
Master of Physical Therapy, University of Pittsburgh, PA

Specialties: Parkinson's Disease: Certification in LSVT Big Therapy
Balance and Vestibular Rehabilitation
Certified Falls Prevention Specialist (CFPS)
Certified Stroke Rehabilitation Specialist (CSRS)
Geriatric & Complex Medical Diagnoses