

Rhea Parekh, MSPT

Physical Therapist

Rhea has been working with Exeter hospital since Sept 2017. She treats patients with different diagnosis such as joint replacements, sports related injuries, degenerative conditions and has a special interest in working with neurological and balance issues. In her free time she enjoys reading books, watching movies, hiking and exploring new places.

Education Bachelors in Physical Therapy – MUHS, India (2015)
 Masters in Physical Therapy – Massachusetts General Hospital Institute of Health Professions (2017)
 Recipient of Adams Fellow Award at MGH for making a significant contribution as a clinical scholar.

Specialties

- Certification in Mulligan’s concept of manual therapy
- Neurological Physical Therapy
- Balance issues
- Integrative Dry Needling